

ABSTRACT

A video processing device includes a background audio change detector that detects background audio changes in audio data corresponding to particular video data. The video processing device detects semantically meaningful video scenes using detected background audio changes and delimits segments of the video data.

10018002-1